Exercise 2: Setting up a Zoho Creator account and exploring the platform architecture and interface

Aim:

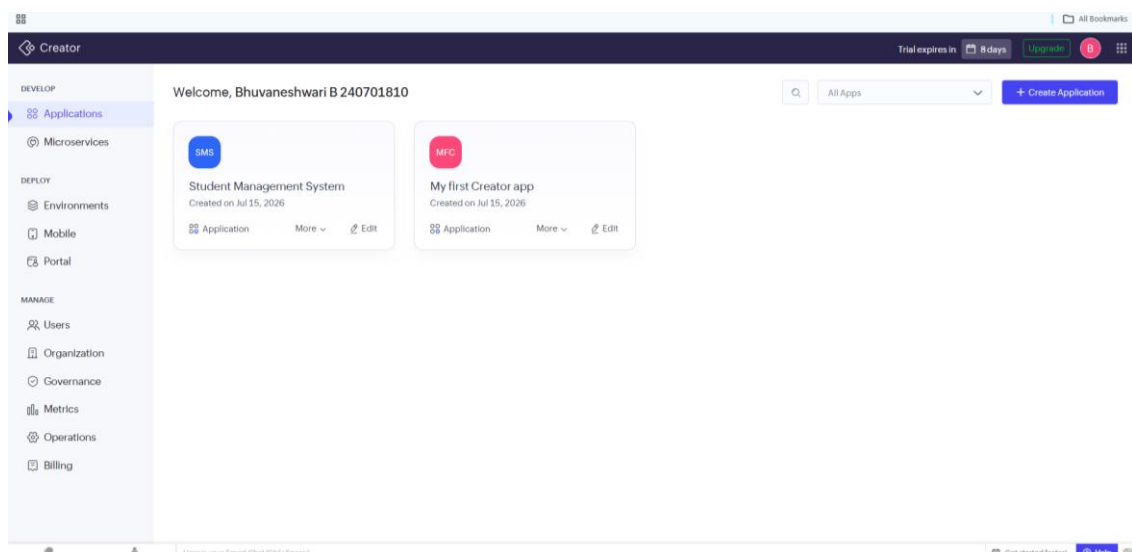

To set up a Zoho Creator account and explore the platform architecture, features, and user interface for understanding low-code application development.

Setting up Zoho Creator:

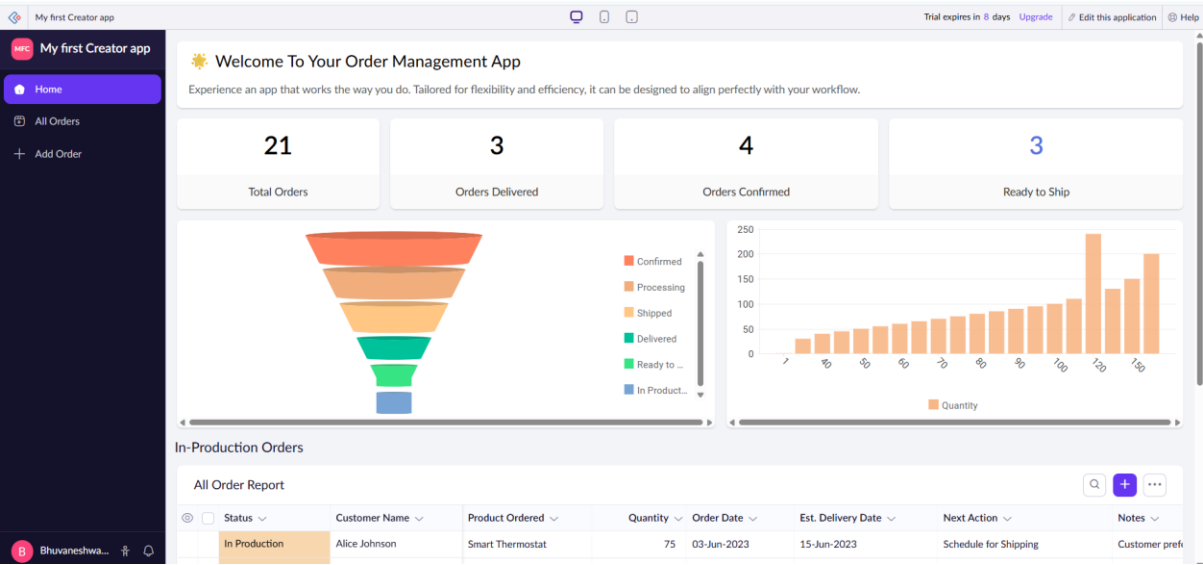

The Zoho Creator Home Page provides access to all applications, templates, and development tools. It serves as the starting point for creating and managing low-code applications.

The After Login Page displays the user's applications, recent activities, and account information. It allows quick navigation to app development and management features.

The dashboard provides an overview of the application's data and key metrics. It helps users monitor records and access different modules of the application.

The Order Report Page displays all order records in a structured format. Users can view, search, filter, and manage order details efficiently.

The "All Order Report" page displays a detailed table of order records. The table includes columns for Status, Customer Name, Product Ordered, Quantity, Order Date, Est. Delivery Date, Next Action, and Notes. The data is filtered to show 21 records. The table is structured as follows:

The Add Order Page allows users to enter and submit new order information. It collects customer and product details and stores them in the application database.

The screenshot shows the 'Add Order' page in Zoho Creator. The sidebar on the left has a dark theme with a red 'Add Order' button. The main content area is titled 'Add Order' and includes a form with the following fields: Customer Name (split into First Name and Last Name), Product Ordered, Quantity, Order Date, Est. Delivery Date, Status (dropdown), Next Action (dropdown), and Notes. At the bottom of the form are 'Submit' and 'Reset' buttons. The top of the page shows a trial expiration notice and links to 'Upgrade', 'Edit this application', and 'Help'.

Develop

Applications

Applications are the main projects created in Zoho Creator to manage business processes and data. They contain forms, reports, pages, workflows, and other components.

Microservices

Microservices allow developers to build reusable services that can be shared across multiple applications. They help improve scalability and reduce duplication of functionality.

Deploy

Environments

Environments provide separate spaces such as Development, Testing, and Production for application deployment. They help manage changes safely before releasing them to users.

Mobile

The Mobile section enables users to access and manage Creator applications on Android and iOS devices. It provides mobile-friendly interfaces and offline capabilities.

Portal

Portals allow external users such as customers, vendors, or partners to access specific application features. Access is controlled through customized login and permission settings.

Manage

Users

The Users section is used to manage application users and assign roles. It helps control who can view, edit, or manage application data.

Organization

Organization settings manage company-wide information, teams, and administrative configurations. It provides centralized control over Creator resources and users.

Governance

Governance helps enforce security, compliance, and development standards across applications. It ensures proper control and monitoring of organizational resources.

Metrics

Metrics provides insights into application performance, usage statistics, and resource consumption. It helps administrators monitor and optimize applications effectively.

Operations

Operations allows administrators to manage deployments, monitor system activities, and troubleshoot issues. It supports smooth functioning and maintenance of applications.

Billing

The Billing section manages subscription plans, payments, and account usage details. It helps organizations track costs and renew services when needed.

Result:

A Zoho Creator account was successfully set up, and the platform architecture and interface were explored to understand its key features and low-code application development environment.
